50,000
PEOPLE WORK IN THE WORLD TRADE CENTER.

THEY ALL REQUIRE LUNCH...

TWO FOOD MARKETPLACES ARE COM

WORLD TRADE CENTER = EMPIRE STATE BUILDING X 5
It would take the office space of 5
Empire State Buildings to equal the office space in the World Trade Center

Planned by the same architects who designed the recently completed food court at the Louvre

For the restaurateur, volume x 4:
Sit-down
Take-out Delivery
Catering

To accommodate over 50,000
customers:
Accessibility
Speed
Selection
Breath-taking Views

WORLD TRADE CENTER =
AMOCO BUILDING X 5
There is almost five times as much office space in the World Trade Center as in the Amoco Building in Chicago

CHICAGO

Typical service areas will have longer than normal

ING TO THE WORLD TRADE CENTER

Museum in Paris.

The sheer number and variety of food service counters assures that the two SKYMARKETS™ will become THE food hubs for the Trade Center's 50,000+ daily workers.

The two SKYMARKETS™ promise to generate enormous volumes of business. Architecturally, they will also be masterpieces of their kind. These food service areas will be designed for maximum efficiency and cash register output, and appointed to complement the splendor of their location.

TORONTO

WORLD TRADE CENTER = SCOTIABANK X 10

It would take the office space of 10 ScotiaBank Towers to equal the office space in the World Trade Center counter footaae as well as greater than normal cash register capacity.

SAN FRANCISCO

WORLD TRADE CENTER =
{4+} X EMBARCADERO
CENTER 1, 2, 3, 4

More people work in the office towers of the World Trade Center than would work in 4 Embarcadero Centers.

WORLD TRADE CENTER =
PENTAGON X 2

There is almost twice as much office space in the World Trade Center as in the Pentagon.

WASHINGTON DC

HOUSTON

WORLD TRADE CENTER > ASTRODOME

More people work at the World Trade Center than can sit for a ballgame at the Houston Astrodome.

The daily food and beverage requirements in the World Trade Center are greater than any complex in the world.
